INTRODUCTORY STATEMENT

projection platforms, which in combination, support a strategically ready force -- a force of decision -- the United States Army. This The Operation and Maintenance, Army appropriation provides for the day-to-day operations of units, schools and power appropriation contributes to readiness by supporting tough, realistic training; providing for improved maintenance of equipment and facilities; and providing the highest possible quality of life for soldiers and their families. The FY 1998/1999 budget request supports the following major categories of mission operations.

Vehicle) and an average of 14.5 flying hours per crew per month for attack helicopters (as well as the armed OH58D helicopters and a OPTEMPO miles include live (ground) as well as a small number (60) of Close Combat Tactical Trainer (simulator) miles. The Operating Tempo (OPTEMPO). The Army's ground OPTEMPO and flying hour programs have been funded to meet Defense Planning Guidance specified readiness levels with acceptable risk. The budget supports ground OPTEMPO of 800 miles per year for the M1 Abrams Tank (934 miles for the M2 Bradley Infantry Fighting Vehicle and 1,309 miles for the M3 Bradley Cavalry Fighting limited number of UH60 helicopters) with an overall flying hour program of 14.0 hours for the Active Component. In selected units, Operation and Maintenance, Army budget will support 12 brigade rotations through the National Training Center, 10 brigade rotations through the Joint Readiness Training Center, and 5 brigade rotations through the Combat Maneuver Training Center. Additionally, 13 division/corps commanders and staffs will participate in the Battle Command Training Program. Institutional Training. The budget funds the Army's Training Modernization Program (Army Training XXI), which is the umbrella that will prepare Army forces to exploit new operational concepts, capabilities, and systems on future battlefields. Army Training through corps level, integrating institutional, self-development, and collective training initiatives. It represents the training strategy concept for total Army training in the 21st Century. Army Training XXI incorporates training and education from the individual XXI is today's training that will enable Army leaders to leverage tomorrow's leap ahead technology.

Supplying and maintaining equipment for Army soldiers is essential to overall readiness. The budget supports sustainability by funding an executable depot maintenance program as well as logistics support programs such as second destination transportation, supply depot operations, the Conventional Ammunition Management Program, and War Reserves. Sustainment.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY FY 1998/1999 BIENNIAL BUDGET ESTIMATE OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, ARMY

INTRODUCTORY STATEMENT

Program, Army Community Services and youth programs. The quality of life structure also includes maintenance and repair of Quality of Life. The budget further contributes to force readiness by providing a quality of life structure for Army soldiers, civilians, and their families. This structure includes family programs such as Child Development Centers, the Exceptional Family Member housing for single and married soldiers as well as renovation of substandard barracks.

Facilities. The posts, camps, and stations provide the platform needed to train and launch today's power projection Army. The budget ensures this platform will be fully operational by funding key base support components to include communications, engineering and public works, and minor repairs and maintenance.

II. Force Structure Summary:

current NMS and is able to respond to two nearly simultaneous major regional conflicts. Our ability to fight and win these conflicts is also dependent on maintaining a robust mobilization capability for our infrastructure, providing tough, realistic training for our troops and ensuring that our soldiers have Forces of 495,000 soldiers and supported by 253,000 civilians in FY 1998. This force can execute the The National Military Strategy (NMS), coupled with the degree of risk our national leadership is willing to accept, ultimately determines the size and characteristics of the Army Force Structure. the best maintained, technologically superior equipment available. These same factors are equally important in conducting the frequent Operations Other Than War (OOTW) which the Army now supports. current NMS dictates the need for an Army consisting of 10 active divisions, manned by total Army

The FY 1998/1999 Operation and Maintenance, Budget Activity 1 requests the resources to fund the day-Program (FHP). Fully funding OPTEMPO only assures that training goals are achieved. Army Readiness is to-day operations of the Army combat units -- that is to say, the divisions, corps and echelons above make training possible (such as ammunition, ranges, land, supply, maintenance, facilities, utilities, and training simulators). Thus, optimal readiness is achieved only when training and the day-to-day more than training alone. It is also dependent on the supporting resources and infrastructure that frequently called "Readiness," and many assume that readiness equals OPTEMPO and the Flying Hour corps which are the basic building blocks of the Army's combat capability. This capability is requirements are adequately resourced and balanced to meet the requirements of the NMS.

Operational Streamlining $ -36,397	-36,397
This decrease reflects the Army's efforts to streamline operations and effectively train and maintain an operational-ready force. Changes to battalion level and unit training strategies, as well as the adoption of more efficient, economical inventory management and logistical distribution systems are instrumental in achieving this goal. Operational streamlining initiatives enable the Army to continue training at the T1/T2 level while providing adequate support to the soldier in the field (T1/T1 - Indicates the current ability of the unit to perform assigned wartime missions).

These systems include t (GMT), Tactical Equipment Instrum Battlefield Mobilization Target A	Contractor Logistics Support (FY 1998 Base: $164,410)$ This change reflects an increase in contract costs associated with the logistics and maintenance support of MTOE equipment and training devices/simulators. As the Army's training strategy phases into the utilization of simulators and simulated events/programs vice "real world exercises" there is an increased cost associated with the support of these training devices. These systems include the Gunnery Maintenance trainer (GMT), Tactical Equipment Instrumentations and Range (TEIR) and Battlefield Mobilization Target Acquisition (BM/TA).	34,715 training while providing the essential power projection platforms necessary to ultimately mobilize, deploy, The first two activity groups do not account for the 'infrastructure' needed to support operations and forces Readiness support. The programs in this area provide vital support to all aspects of training and supply and reconstitute the force. These resource elements are shown in the third activity group, Land readiness. The Base Operations Support, Real Property Maintenance, and Management and Operations Headquarters, and Unified command support functions shown in this activity group constitute the infrastructure necessary to execute the Army's missions and achieve desired readiness levels. Base Support to Land Forces provides an installation infrastructure to support the quality of life of our soldiers and their families. It also supports and maintains a power projection platform capable of mobilizing, deploying, recovering, and reconstituting active component and mobilization forces.

Army support to Unified Commands is shown in this activity group as well and represents the Army's day-to-day costs to provide operational support to warfighting Commanders-in-Chiefs (CINCs) The Additional Activities component of this activity group represents the cost of special Army support Organization and Equipment (MTOE) bands, chemical activities, and contingency and certain other overseas such as the Army Marksmanship Unit, Joint Doctrine and Warfare Centers, selected Modified Table of operations.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY FY 1998/1999 BIENNIAL BUDGET ESTIMATES OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, ARMY

BUDGET ACTIVITY: MOBILIZATION

Description of Operations Financed:

The Mobilization Budget Activity affords the United States Army the ability to maintain a viable deterrence and an adequate defense of the nation's vital interests. As defined in the National Military Strategy, the foundation of the new, regionally oriented, defense strategy includes forward presence, With less reliance on forward deployed forces and more on a visible forward presence, the prepositioning of equipment required for wartime operations and purposes rises. This budget activity displays those costs as mobilization requirements as opposed to operating forces costs. It is important to note that these are costs that provide for deployment enablers which will ensure deployment infrastructure is sufficient to move a CONUS based contingency force from installations and depots through ports of embarkation to support power projection the rapid deployment of CONUS based forces are major components of the Army's crisis response capability. Also, as the active force is reduced in size to retain only the capabilities required to meet the immediate and most probable threats, the cost of maintaining a support base for mobilization Continental United States (CONUS) based force, the Mobilization Budget Activity resources form an crisis response and force reconstitution. As the Army transitions to a more regionally focused, important component of the nation's defense strategy.

forward presence in the form of prepositioned equipment, maintaining a rapid crisis response capability to the immediate and most probable regional threats, and retaining a force reconstitution and sustainment capability to provide the National Command Authority an option to expand and mobilize to This funding will allow the Army to protect the nation's security interests by demonstrating This will be accomplished by the following subactivities: meet wartime requirements.

STRATEGIC MOBILITY - The capability to immediately deploy and sustain a five and one third division corps with its associated force structure to any emergency crisis worldwide.

afloat and on land, to sustain the operating forces for lengths of time and levels of conflict outlined in the National Military Strategy and The Army Plan. Includes prepositioning afloat the equivalent of a heavy combat The war reserve program incorporates the Prepositioning of Materiel Configured to Unit Sets (POMCUS) Accordingly, the requirement to separately track POMCUS assets from other war reserve stocks no longer relocated both ashore and afloat to provide better and more timely support to a CONUS based power projection support into strategic common user stockpiles oriented towards supporting multiple CINCs. Assets in Central Europe, previously known as POMCUS, were consolidated at the Army level into Army War Reserve (Europe) and program based on the Army's transition of the war reserve program from component Commander in Chief (CINC) WAR RESERVE - An adequate inventory of immediately available supplies and equipment, stationed both INDUSTRIAL PREPAREDNESS - An industrial and installation support base capable of mobilizing on short notice to meet the nation's defense requirements in high intensity and/or long duration conflicts.

MOBILIZATION BUDGET ACTIVITY:

Force Structure Summary: II.

This budget activity supports the National Military Strategy for the deployment and sustainment of a five and one third division Contingency Corps anywhere in the world. Strategy calls for building and maintaining the capability to deploy and sustain a tailorable force of up to five and one third divisions. The lead brigade is required to be on the ground in theater within 4 days of deployment notification, lead division within 12 days, two armored/mechanized divisions within 30 days, and the full corps support within 75 days. In addition, the Army must maintain the capability to deploy a second corps to a second regional conflict during deployment of the initial corps.

Description of Operations Financed:

The Mobility Operations Activity Group consists of the following sub-activity groups that represent distinct and important facets of Mobility Operations and Mobilization.

STRATEGIC MOBILITY - Provides funding for Strategic Mobility improvements to enhance the movement of equipment and supplies in the Continental United States and expand the afloat prepositioning program. Also provides for deployment training initiatives, upgraded deployment outload facilities, container procurement, Cost drivers are the number of vehicles and short tons ammunition maintained and the number of prepositioned ships maintained to support war plans. and maintenance of prepositioned equipment.

Accordingly, the requirement to necessary facilities and associated costs specifically required to store and handle war reserve materials. Incorporates the Prepositioning of Materiel Configured to Unit Sets (POMCUS) program based on the Army's sub-activity group is measured in terms of short tons of materiel stored and maintained and the readiness capability of the war reserve stocks on hand. The cost driver for this WAR RESERVE - Provides funding for manpower, materiel handling and other supply support equipment, transition of the war reserve program from component CINC support into strategic common user stockpiles oriented towards supporting multiple CINCs. Assets in Central Europe, previously known as POMCUS, were separately track POMCUS assets from other war reserve stocks no longer exists.

An integral part of this program is the equipment; transportation services; utility systems; and maintenance and repair of real property, roads, and (excludes ammunition) and provides for planning with private industry and government owned plants, program evaluation of industrial base sectors and development of recommendations to remedy sector deficiencies. In FY 1996, program funding also included resources for underutilized and unutilized (reserve) plant and equipment that is held in standby, idle, or lay-away status or for war reserve storage. These resources included direct and general support maintenance of non-tactical Beginning in FY 1997, the program no longer funds the underutilized plant and equipment capacity and only railway systems. Funds are used to maintain infrastructure and are above/beyond peacetime requirements. INDUSTRIAL PREPAREDNESS - The industrial base which supports the Army is undergoing serious and The program consists of industrial preparedness end item support The FY 1998 and FY 1999 industrial preparedness operations program supports supports unutilized capacity. Program Decreases:

- a. Specialized Skill Training (FY 1997 Base: $241,031)...... $ Although the training load increases in FY 1998, the funding is reduced for three reasons:
- (1) Army Science Board identified reductions for efficiencies through the consolidation of the Combined Arms and Services Staff School (CAS3) into Officer Advanced Course which will initially reduce the CAS3 course length from 9 to 6 weeks and in the future will be conducted under the Army Distance Learning Plan.
- actual training loads are generally lower than training that actual training loads are generally lower than training load budget estimates. The student show rates fluctuate yearly because they are influenced by a multitude of factors such as deployments, accessions, and the force structure mix. This aggressive measure reduces funding to incorporate historical attrition and probable vacant seats caused by a variety of factors in year of execution.
- (3) There are one-time expansion costs in FY 1997 for selected Military Occupational Specialty shortages such as communications, intelligence, and languages.

The Active Component workload increases by 423 loads and the Reserve and National Guard workload decreases by 229 and 278, respectively. Additionally, the direct workload from other Services increases 249. The major load increases are in two training categories: enlisted skill progression training that provides NCO leadership development for promotions and functional courses such as ranger, airborne, language training. Noncommissioned Officer (NCO) training provides the linkage between NCO leadership development and NCO promotions.

Description of Operations Financed:

General Defense Intelligence Program (GDIP), the Foreign Counterintelligence Program (FCI), Security and Security programs consist of the Consolidated Cryptologic Program (CCP), Intelligence Activities (S&IA), and Arms Control treaties implementation. SECURITY PROGRAMS

CCP, GDIP, AND FCI - Part of the National Foreign Intelligence Program (NFIP), regulated by Executive Order 12333. The respective program managers are: CCP - Director, National Security Agency (NSA); GDIP - Director, Defense Intelligence Agency; FCI - Assistant Secretary of Defense for Command, Control and Communication and Intelligence (ASD, C3I).

The CCP, GDIP, and FCI budgets are fully documented and justified in classified submissions and are available to properly cleared individuals on request.

of the ground forces commander. It provides resources for the operation of various intelligence and CI/SCM support of Army intelligence, counterintelligence and security countermeasure (CI/SCM) programs in support Materiel Command, Intelligence Materiel Division at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland; U.S. Army Europe, Heidelberg, Germany; and 650th MI Group in SHAPE, Belgium. Provides resources to support the Intelligence S&IA - Supports combat readiness through counterintelligence and other intelligence support to Army installations, activities and research and development efforts; non-standard administrative and technical activities of the Headquarters, U.S. Army Intelligence and Security Command, Fort Belvoir, Virginia; Army Community Assignment Program (ICAP).

ARMS CONTROL TREATY IMPLEMENTATION - Funding captures all operating and development costs directly associated with implementing arms control treaties and agreements. The cost driver for arms control treaties implementation is the number of inspections scheduled by each individual treaty. The cost driver for Security Programs is the National Military Intelligence Estimate.

BUDGET ACTIVITY: ADMINISTRATION AND SERVICEWIDE ACTIVITIES Activity Group: Logistics Operations

I. Description of Operations Financed:

These programs support the LOGISTICS OPERATIONS - Logistics Operations includes the areas of Transportation, Central Supply Activities, Logistics Support Activities, and Conventional Ammunition Management. These programs suppor National Military Strategy by enabling logistics readiness, strategic agility, and power projection.

SERVICEWIDE TRANSPORTATION - Includes the movement of materiel between Army depots and Army customers, shipments, and APO mail. The materiel, goods, and mail transported by the Air Mobility Command (AMC), Military Sealift Command (MSC), Military Traffic Management Command (MTMC), and commercial carriers. Destination Transportation of Army supplies and equipment, Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) transportation and the Defense Freight Railway Interchange Fleet (DFRIF). Funding supports Second the movement of goods and mail to support service members worldwide and the management of ground cost drivers are short tons and measurement tons of cargo shipped.

Procurement Offices in support of Program Executive Offices, U.S. Army Materiel Command and Foreign Military Sales; and Sustainment Systems Technical Support (STS). Sustainment STS encompasses the organic and contract technical and engineering design services required for safety, deficiency, environmental, and storage, and other supply services performed; NICP - number of weapon system fleets and EI densities managed, and requisitions processed; Procurement - number of EI contracts administered; and STS - number of Systems/Major End Items (EI). Programs include Supply Depot Operations (SDO) at Defense Logistics Agency capability modifications to out-of-production fielded weaponry. Central Supply Activities do not support conventional ammunition end items or secondary items. Cost drivers involve: SDO - EI issues, receipts, DLA) and Army residual depots and arsenals; National Inventory Control Point (NICP) operations; El CENTRAL SUPPLY ACTIVITIES - Fields, redistributes, modernizes and sustains all Army Weapon work years of effort.
